If you think you can cope with manual rack, go for it. If not, either look for other options OR get a power steering rack put on it. Racers normally dont use power steering on racing MX5 (power steering is heavier and uses some of the power that the engine produces) and will happily do a 1 for 1 trade between normal and PS racks. Good luck.

The Miata chassis is universal, meaning there is no difference between the auto and manual cars. So this allowed the manual transmission to bolt up to the engine as well as the shifter turret to be perfectly aligned. To completely connect the drivetrain the Power Plant Frame, as well as the driveshaft from the manual car, was required.
